The .. Dead Head" System.

A correspondent of the Boston Journal writes concerning the late letter of President Moran, of the New York and Erie Railroad:

In this circular he makes a savage assault on the class of editors and keepers of the principal hotels, whom Mr. Moran says ride over his road free, without the slightest return any way. The system of free passes I am not about to defend. Let the rule be adopted, and "editors" and "keepers of the principal hotels" are not the men to suffer. The agents and runners and employees of this same Erie Road are the greatest suckers and "dead heads" in the country. One of their New York runners has been at one of the principal hotels in this city for the brief space of five years, and he has not paid one cent. Another of the employees of this road was taken sick at the same hotel, and remained there six months, for which this "dead head" never paid one dollar, nor has the road for him. And the bill for the entertainment of the employees of this road alone, if charged at the common rate, would be five thousand dollars, while the proprietors of this hatel have never used a free pass on that road in their lives. The fact is, these men come to New York-go to the best hotel-put down their names as of this railroad or that-have the best rooms-eat the fat of the land-drink the best of wine -smoke the best cigars -bow their thanks to the "gentlemanly proprieror," go home fat and flour-ishing, send their men and cards to the hotel, expect that the people will be directed to their road, and when the annual meeting comes round, these " dead head" managers, who have not skill enough to make the road popular or productive, smite the hand that feeds them, and talk about the "free pass system" by which "editors and hotel proprietors" ride free of charge, and yield " nothing in return." Editors

the country. They have no time to waste in such recreations, while day by day and year by year these editors are expected to aid the roads and lend them the use of their columns; and as eighty out of each hundred persons that leave our hotels will take the advice of the keepers of the hotels which road they had better take, it is demanded that their road be prominent. Let Mr. Moran propose this resolution to the board

" Resolved, That the system of giving free passages to the keepers of principal hotels, especially, is unit inasmuch as it entails upon them the obligation to entertain Directors, Agents, Conductors and Runners to such an extent, that the free passage to some of them cost in reality one hundred dollars a trip."

In one case I know, if the proprietor were to be passed "dead head" over the Erie Road, he would have already paid in free entertainment to the agents &c., of that road five thousand dollars, notwithstand. ing he never used a free pass on the Erie Road. All the hotel men will aid in the passage of such a resolution, and a rule to make hotel keepers pay will be received with delight by them. The doing away with agents and runners, alias bill-distributors, will be hailed with satisfaction. They are nuisances. Let the hotel officers be thoroughly posted, so that they with the general wishes of the route. The traveler relies upon the hotel officer in eighty out of a hundred cases. Mr. Moran ought to remember, when he writes again, to say that the free passage system is a deep injury to hotels without the road being advantaged thereby. But let him remember also, that when free rides on the road are discontinued, free dinners, free segars, and free puffs in the columns of the editor's paper go with it. In this age of rivalry, not a day passes that the editorial rooms are not dogged by the employees of these corporations, to answer some squib, to run up some stock, to praise this man and that measure. " Pay here" should be on all editorial

The Real Hindoo Secret Symbol. In the course of debate in the British Commons on he affairs of India, Mr. D'Israeli raised the important question, whether the insurrection was a sudden impulsive, local mantiny, or an organized national revolution, and adduct evidence to show combination and conspiracy. He referred to the circulation of misterious cakes in India about a year since, and also to the circulation of lotus flowers among the Sepoy the European markets instead of sending it here and regiments. We presume these emblems are well paying a couble commission for its transmission understood by our Hindoo friends of the Know Nothng lodges, though they are symbols which perplex British statesmen. But as these cakes and flowers. and their mysterious agency, like the cross of fire sped, by Malise to gather the clans of Roderick Dhu, Mr. D'Israeli referred :-

lu India, nearly 12 months ago, this took place .-A messenger comes to the headman of a village and brings him six pancakes-chupatties, such as the natives make of wheaten flour, and he says, " These will continue from year to year, and we shall all six pancakes are sent to you; you will make six others and send them on to the next village." The headman obeys, accepts the six cakes, makes six others, and sends them on to the headman of the next village with the same message. How did it begin ? It is a mystery. If we knew the village whence the pancakes were first circulated we might get very valuable information. But in the course of four or five months the whole of Bengal and the great part of the contiguous country have been subjected to this process of a man going from village to svillage, from headman to headman, from police station to "Republican" philanthropy and far-sighted sagaci- police station, leaving six pancakes, with no other order than that six other pancakes should be made and circulated. Suppose the Emperor of Russia. whose territory in extent and character has more resemblance to our Eastern possessions than the territory of any other power-suppose the Emperor of Russia were told, "Sire, there is a very remarkable circumstance going on in your territory ; from village to village men are passing who leave the tail of an ermine, or a pot of caviare, with a message to some to perform the same ceremony. Strange to say, this has been going on in some 10,000 villages, and we cannot make head or tail of it."

I think the Emperor of Russia would say, "I do not know whether you can make head or tail of it but I am quite sure there is something wrong, and people are not usually indiscreet and troublesome. they do not make a secret communication unless it is opposed to the Government. This is a secret communication, and therefore a communication dangerous to the Government." This sending of cakes went on. I do not say that the Government could penetrate the secret; I do not find fault with them because they did not find it out. What I want to show isthat there were outward and visible signs of confederacy. There was also an indication of conspiracy among the military, which must have been known to the Indian Government. I allude to the circumstance of the lous flower. A man came with a lotus flower and gave it to the chief of a regiment. It was circuand perfection excelling the most favored places of was not a regiment, not a station, not an escort, to might be to prove conspiracy, that I would offer to the House facts and circumstances sufficient to convince them there was no conspiracy. I think I have said enough to induce the House to pause before they form too precipitate an opinion upon the causes of
